Historical

Raiding

Walking through Raiding you can see plenty of engaging sights to explore. Some of the cultural sights reveal telling secrets.

A Catholic Parish Church

The Catholic parish church devoted to St Anthony of Padua is an ideal place to start your tour. Built from about 1675 to 1680, the original church was demolished in 1924 to be reconstructed in its historical form including the old tower. The modern inner space is dominated by marvellous artistic depictions of St Anthony.

A Dr. Paul-Iby Square

Next to the parish church, the square (named after Dr. Paul Iby to commemorate the 10th anniversary of his service as a bishop) is a gorgeous place to linger. A splendid memorial was erected by the Burgenland artist Josef Bernhard to honour the bishop and honorary citizen of Raiding, who was born in Raiding in late 1935. It is a work of art made up of a highly symbolic group of stones and portraits of the bishop.

A Statue of Johannes Nepomuk

At the bridge in front of the church, visitors can find a small stone figure of St John of Nepomuk. Erected in 1743, it is a petrified witness of Raiding's eventful past.

B St Donatus

Erected in 1743, another veritable jewel is waiting to be discovered at the new cemetery. Standing on a pillar, the stone statue was erected here to commemorate the Roman martyr Donatus, literally meaning „donated by God“.

C Madonna from Medjugorje

Walking through Raiding, at the entrance of the cemetery the visitor finds a Madonna from Medjugorje, donated by Josef Kienzl. For many locals and the religious in the area this is a popular place of serenity to get away from all the hassle of hectic everyday life.

1 Franz Liszt Memorial

The Franz Liszt Memorial at the Franz Liszt Square is a fixed point for the admirers of the musical genius. In 1967, the engineer Otto Bremer, an admirer of Liszt and an honorary citizen of Raiding, had a bust of Liszt made of white Carrara marble.

3 War Memorial

Our tour leads us on to the War Memorial. Located in the middle of the village, on the banks of the Raiding brook, the War Memorial reminds us of the dreadful events of both World Wars and is a tribute to the over 100 victims from Raiding.

D The Bishop's Cross

Further along you can see a massive, yet simple wooden cross, erected on the hill top between Raiding and Horitschon in 1993. This was occasioned by the pride and joy that Dr. Paul lby of Raiding was appointed bishop of Eisenstadt that year.

E Showcase Roman Amber Route

Those of you with an interest in history may want to know that Raiding is located along the Roman Amber Route. On the southern hilltop outside the village you'll find an information table explaining about the ancient trade route, the Roman Empire and its Emperors.

F Urban Chapel

Working hard to restore the Chapel to its original state, the newly founded Friends of the Urban Chapel firmly believe that the Urban Chapel is yet another gem for tourists in Raiding. The first results of their work are on display in the ancient vineyard.

G Franz Liszt - Birthplace

This is the house where the cradle of the genius once stood. It is a memorable experience for every visitor to see the place where the musician spent his childhood. The former property of the Esterhazy family was donated to Raiding in 1951 by Prince Paul.

G Franz Liszt - Concert Hall

Visitors find a masterpiece of architecture neighbouring Liszt's birth house. Thanks to its impressive acoustics, it is certainly the concert hall that is the heart of the concert centre, offering a genuine listening experience to up to 600 music-lovers.

Liszt's

Raiding

The 22nd October, 1811 is a significant date not only for Raiding but also for the history of music. On that day, the genius pianist and composer, Franz Liszt, was born in Raiding, putting not only the village but also the then West-Hungarian area on the world map.

Since 1968, the Raiding Liszt Society has been promoting Liszt's uniquely diverse cultural heritage, bringing the most prominent artist of his age closer to wider audiences by organising concerts, publications and travels. The most recent achievement of their sustained efforts is the Liszt Library „Liszt & Wine,“ H housing a great number of books, musical scores, recordings and letters gathered from various places, made available to the general public- (Franz Liszt Platz 1, A-7321 Raiding).

A particular gem is, of course, Franz Liszt's idyllic birthplace, the house of the administrative steward of the Esterházy sheep farms. This is where Liszt spent the first ten years of his life. The beautifully appointed Franz Liszt Museum has been open to the public in this historic house since 1911.

Opened in 2006, the Liszt Centre gives Liszt's birthplace an impressive counterpoint. The award-winning building fascinates the visitor with its modern architecture concepts and yet ideal functionality. The unmatched acoustics of the concert hall makes the Liszt Centre an amazing place to perform as part of the annual Raiding Liszt Festival, managed by Eduard and Johannes Kutrowatz. The comprehensive and diverse concert programmes have set new standards in performing works by Liszt, to the great joy of connoisseur audiences from all over the world.

The latest result of the cooperation among the village of Raiding, the Liszt Society and the Kutrowatz brothers is the liszt.life – „The Liszt Trail–His Life and Work“. Leading the visitor all along the village green, a varied and informative walking trail presents the various stages of Liszt's life. Liszt is far more than simply classic. In the course of his highly impressive career, he was regarded as a wonder child, a piano virtuoso, a ladies' idol, a free spirit and even as a witch master of European concert halls. In Raiding you have the unrivalled opportunity to experience Liszt in a different and not the least – in an artistically smart way.

Liszt Trail

Raiding

1 liszt.wonder child

Franz Liszt was born on 22 October, 1811 in Raiding, then part of the Hungarian Kingdom, from where he set out at a very young age to conquer the world as a child prodigy.

2 liszt.adulated

Women at his performances tended to get delirious and hysterical; some of them even fainted. The scenes of the Liszt-mania remind us of the personality cults surrounding pop-stars in the 20th century.

3 liszt.impressive

His symphonic poem, the 'Les Préludes' had its share of the fate of many other marvellous pieces of the 19th century, to be misused for political purposes.

4 liszt.virtuoso

Liszt had a marked preference for the pianos made by the legendary Viennese piano-maker Bösendorfer (established in 1828). The son of the founder of the company, Ludwig Bösendorfer, (1835–1919) was a close friend of the old Liszt's.

The walking trail along the village green invites visitors to explore Raiding for themselves, to enjoy the charming idyll of the small Pannonian village and also to find out about Franz Liszt. Arranged in a creative way, eight stations have been erected to present the various aspects of Liszt's gripping life.

5 liszt.dreamer of love

Besides his symphonic poem 'Les Préludes', the 'Liedstraum' is undoubtedly one of the most well-known pieces by Liszt. Press the button to hear the 'Liedstraum' from the red cube.

6 liszt.gorgeous

Liszt continued to make a remarkable appearance not only as a mesmerizing stage performer and women's idol, but also as an abbey in a priest's clothing.

7 liszt.european

Liszt was born in Raiding as a German speaking Hungarian; he moved to Paris already at a young age, where he gained highly significant inspirations from contemporary French culture.

8 liszt.spiritual

There was an underlying inner spirituality behind the glamorous appearance of a virtuoso performer, which was striving to put the idea of the Franciscan charity and social engagement into practice.
